Blending wool and cotton is a practice used in creating textiles that combine the properties of both fibers. Wool is known for its warmth, moisture-wicking abilities, and insulating properties even when wet, while cotton is highly breathable, soft, and comfortable. A blend of these fibers could potentially offer a combination of warmth, breathability, and comfort in a fabric.

BANANA FABRIC SAREE

Banana Fibre Sarees are handwoven by weavers in Tamil Nadu. Banana Pith sarees are handwoven with yarn created from banana fibre. They are usually available in in contrast colours. These sarees have a look and feel of silk sarees.

AJRAK MODAL SILK SAREE

To identify ajrakh one needs to look for fabric with a background of red or blue (though other vegetable dye colours like yellow and green have been introduced) Traditionally four colours were used red (alizarin), blue (indigo), black (iron acetate) white (resist).

AJRAK SILK DUPATTA

The salwar-suit is one of the most versatile attires to buy today, and the cultural landscape of India requires you to get a dupatta carefully draped on the front and flows down freely over the shoulders. You can wear the dupatta casually or formally. Whether worn with Punjabi or Patiala suits, the ajrak dupatta has a distinctive style.

ALOEVERA MEN SHIRTS

It features excellent antibacterial and anti-allergenic properties. Microfiber fabric ALOE VERA Fabric is equipped with the final finish, which delivers exceptional fabric properties. The Aloe Vera acts as a natural purifier, as an anesthetic. Relieves pain, such as muscles, joints, etc.

BANANA SHIRTS

Banana fibre in clothing feels comfortable and does not trigger any allergies. It is also fire resistant, heat resistant, water-resistant, and greaseproof. It is reasonably strong and durable, as the fabric uses tough outer material.

HEMP DENIM SHIRTS

Hemp fabric is derived from the fibers of the Cannabis sativa plant, which is known for its strong and durable properties. Hemp shirts are not only long-lasting but also offer a range of benefits for the wearer. Firstly, hemp fabric is highly breathable, allowing air to circulate and keeping you cool even in hot weather.

HEMP DENIM JEANS

Hemp is a long-lasting and hard wearing fabric, with 5x the tensile strength of cotton and 3x more durability. Hemp fabric is naturally antibacterial, antifungal and antimicrobial, while also having excellent moisture-wicking properties.

HEMP SHIRTS

Hemp protects your skin by naturally filtering UV light. Hemp resists bacterial growth and breathes excellently, preventing odors. Hemp has four times the strength of cotton; It won't weaken when washed. Hemp retains color better than any other fabric.
